Editor's Column

This year Carmel property owners will pay 36 and nine-tenths cents tax to support the Harrison Memorial Library.

Councilman Gunnar Norberg, this week, told the Pine Cone he thinks this is six and nine-tenths too much.

He points out that state and municipal codes allow Carmel to tax up to 30 cents to support the library until the general tax rate reaches one dollar, then more than 30 cents may be taxed.

This coming year Carmel's tax rate will be $1.06. Therefore the city is permitted to tax over 30 cents for the library, but Mr. Norberg doesn't think it should.

City Auditor Arthur Plaxton says the 1964-65 library tax shows the actual cost of maintaining the library. In previous years, property owners paid 30 cents library tax, but other tax revenue had to be taken from the general fund to cover some library costs. This will not be necessary in the coming year.

The city's budget for 1964-65 allows $69,484 to cover all library expenses.

This sum is broken down as follows: salaries $49,500; retirement, $6,482; accounting service, $720; employee health insurance, $483; maintenance and repairs, $1,000; building supplies, $1,000; utilities and telephone, $2,250; janitorial service, $2,400; books and periodicals, $6,500; library supplies $1,000; postage and shipping, $420; binding, $1,500; cataloging service, $2,000; capital outlay $1,229; unsegregated, $500.

The largest amount in the library budget is for salaries. The $49,500 budgeted in this category pays 12 library employees (nine and one-half full time) plus a janitor, Mrs. Ruth Thornburg, head librarian, explains.

Four of the library employees are trained professionals. The rest are clerical assistants. This staff takes care of over 5,000 cardholders and over 60,000 books.

Each library employee can advance in pay through six steps in several classifications. At (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Feathers . . . From the Shaft

By Harry the Fletcher

No. 69

It's that time of the year for a crocodile tear, when our youngsters get ready for college; little kids, as a rule, getting tamed down for school, while the teachers replenish their knowledge.

The streets will be empty, with parking a-plenty, as the tourists go home, as intended. But they stifle their sobs and go back to their jobs, 'cause the summer vacation has ended.

So the kids and the grads, and the mothers and dads, and the rest of us get the suggestion that there's work to be done ere the winter's begun, for there's bills to be paid without question.

Now the thought comes to me of how nice it would be to abolish all working and schooling. But I fail to see how we could live like a cow; so it's only ourselves we'd be fooling.

Stuart Highlanders Bagpipe Band

The Stuart Highlanders Bagpipe Band will come to Carmel on Sunday.

This will be the fourth summer the top pipe band in Northern California has given a free concert at the Forest Theater. This year the band will bring with it a group of Scottish folk dancers and two solo dancers.

Drum major Geoffrey Baldwin (above) will again lead pipers and drummers in a colorful parade up Ocean Avenue. The parade will leave the city hall parking lot on Monte Verde Street at 1:30 p.m.

The concert will begin when the band, and the hundreds of followers it gathers on its march up Ocean and along Mountain View, arrive at the Forest Theater at 2 p.m.

The Carmel Arts Commission sponsors the pipers' yearly visit. Carmel merchants, business and professional men foot the bill for their entertainment. Glenn Kearns and Floyd Adams unofficial heads of that informal group, the Society for the Promotion of Fun in Carmel, have made all arrangements for band members and their wives to stay here at no expense, also for a party in their honor.

The Stuart Highlanders command high compensation elsewhere. However, they donate their concert at the Forest Theater . . . they like us so well.

As for Carmelites, they so love the kilted, tartaned pipers and drummers that they not only fill all the seats at the municipal open air auditorium but also sit all over the ground, and even in trees, to see the band perform precision drills to Scottish marches, also reels and strathspeys.

Then, reluctant to miss even a skirl, or a drum ruffle, they follow the pipers all the way down Ocean Avenue after the concert.

Uses Subcommittee Seeks Information Of Cultural Groups

The uses subcommittee of the Sunset Committee has decided to ask Peninsula cultural organizations what their long range plans are in regard to the use of Sunset School auditorium, Subcommittee Chairman Ted Fehring reported to Frank Putnam, Sunset Committee chairman, at a meeting of the whole committee last night.

He said that a request for a 50-seat puppet theatre in the Sunset development had been considered by the subcommittee. Members agreed that adequate provision for this use had already been reported upon and a specifically constructed puppet theatre on the Sunset property should be the responsibility of the group making the proposal.

City Hall On Sunset Site Possible.. If

Members of the Sunset Committee, last night, became involved in a legal snarl as to whether or not the city hall, or other city departments, may be placed on the Sunset School site after it becomes municipal property. However, an opinion of the city attorney untied the knots and a councilman's statement made it plain that the Sunset property should be developed in the way people of Carmel most desire, also the city clerk affirmed a parking lot as a proper use of the site.

On Monday afternoon at 2 p.m., in Normandy Inn, chairman of the uses, structures and finance subcommittees will meet with Frank Putnam, chairman of the Sunset Committee, to prepare a report on the work of the committee so far. This report will be voted upon by all 30 members of the committee, and amended, if necessary, before it is presented to the city council on September 15 at a joint meeting of the council and Sunset Committee. The committee was appointed by the council to frame development of the Sunset site.

Last night's concern over legalities arose from a letter sent by Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.), chairman of the Sunset structures subcommittee, also president of the Carmel Citizens Committee. This letter asked the San Francisco legal firm of Orrick, Dahlquist, Herrington and Sutcliffe, attorneys for the city's financial consultants on the Sunset School bond issue, four questions concerning pro-

New Developments In Business Zone

The Carmel Planning Commission, yesterday, looked at plans approved by its design review committee. These were for two developments at the corner of Ocean and San Carlos in the area where the old Manzanita Theatre was demolished, also the Murphy lumber yard buildings.

Action on a new bank, also shop development will be taken next week. Yesterday planners looked at the new facility planned for Wells-Fargo Bank. This will have walk-up windows facing a parking lot with entry off San Carlos and exit on Mission.

Architect Olof Dahlstrand said the whole development would be integrated into a "plaza" type of development.

The second set of plans were for the same area. Three shops on a court entering off Mission have been designed for the land south of the new bank by Burde, Shaw Associates. These shops will have access to Carmel square and the bank premises.

Next week the commission will (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Ford Foundation Gives Grant To Carmel Schools

Medill Bair, superintendent of Carmel Unified School District, this week, was notified that the Fund for the Advancement of Education established by the Ford Foundation has granted the Carmel Unified School District $4,000 to meet in part the travel and maintenance cost for a number of teachers and administrators to visit selected schools and school systems throughout the country. These visits will be focused on the development of better educational programs and practices, particularly as they relate to curriculum.

The funds received will permit members of the elementary and secondary staff to visit several of the leading school systems in the United States, including some in the immediate vicinity of Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, and the Pacific Northwest.

This past year the Carmel School District has been involved in extensive study with the entire curriculum program, covering the areas from kindergarten through grade 12, in an attempt to upgrade the various subject matter fields in three general areas. First, the instructional staff has been attempting to secure a better coordination of the present program from one level to another. Second, they have been attempting to update the various subject matter fields in (Continued on Page Eleven)

CARMELO STREET PLACARDED

Nearly every tree on the west side of Carmelo south of Ocean sported a red and white No Parking placard yesterday. This was done to warn residents, or anyone else that might be parking a car overnight beside the roadway, not to do so.

Due to start today was a resurfacing project of the Carmel Street Department. The signs are put out ahead of any such work because, if not, when the men come to start work in the morning they may have to conduct a door-to-door search for owners of parked vehicles. And sometimes these owners resent being awakened as early as the street department begins its working day.

ONLY IN CARMEL

Observed By
Harry Fletcher

The great majority of us have experienced living elsewhere before becoming residents of Carmel, and all of us have to admit (mostly with considerable pride) that "only in Carmel" do certain things exist, with the accompanying attributes. And I, for one, am constantly discovering more and more evidence of this really marvelous state of affairs. It's exhilarating, to say the least.

Whenever, on rare occasions, a new restaurant opens, people are inclined to say, "Oh, Lord, another hash house." But this definitely cannot be said about the Coach House Restaurant just opened by Chester and Josephine Montwill in The Mall, half way between 5th and 6th on San Carlos Street. These two dedicated chefs are but recently from London and Paris. They cook English dishes a La Hotel Claridges, with just the right touch of French and Italian overtones. Think of a real London (not frozen) fish and chips lunch for $1.35. Being a Londoner, I went for this first thing, and it was the real McCoy! And wait 'til you taste Chester's genuine home-made ravioli. I had the privilege of watching him make them. They're round—each one put together individually. And the rest of the menu! Shades of Ye Old Cheshire Cheese! You'll drool over their dinner offerings. Do yourselves a favor, believe me, and eat out tonight at The Coach House. I know you'll be thanking me for the suggestion.

Most people have pets of one sort or another, but are continually being faced with the problem of keeping them clean and well-groomed. Yet this should be no cause for annoyance or neglect, because right here in the middle of Carmel is situated The Animal Kingdom, on the west side of Torres Street, just a little up the hill from 5th Street going toward 4th. Here they specialize in ridding your dog of fleas, washing it and making it sanitary enough for any household. Other pets are also taken care of. In addition, they have pet foods, medicines, and grooming necessities. You may also buy pets here, especially tropical fish, birds, white rats, hamsters, and even an organ-grinder's monkey. Whatever your needs in the care of your pets the place to go is The Animal Kingdom, behind the Veterinary Hospital on Torres, and the phone number is 624-8828. They love animals here, and they have my special recommendation.

People are really nice in Carmel. Some folks called me up to thank me for calling their attention to the marvelous stews served evenings at La Marmite, that intimate little French restaurant in Carmel Square on San Carlos Street half-way between Ocean and Seventh. And this in spite of the fact that I deliberately emphasized the statement: "If you don't like stew, don't go to La Marmite (The Pot). But, such stew! Beef or lamb stew served in individual silver serving pots, besides the gulyas (goulash) and the bouillabaisse de poissons (fish stew), and the petite Marmite, which is super chicken broth with half a chicken, vegetables, etc. And how popular the lunches are getting to be with the local trade, and the visitors, too. If you haven't tried their cold plates, or their Roulade de Celerie (ham stuffed with cooked celery and sauce) you have missed the greatest $1.40 lunch on the Peninsula. So why don't you make a note of it—have dinner at La Marmite soon."

Sunset Bond Bonanza

The city received an unexpected sum, in excess of $2,000, when City Clerk Hugh Bayless received payment for the Sunset School bonds.

The amount he deposited in the bank Monday was $577,334.31.

The city sold the bonds to the highest bidder, United California Bank in July. At that time the bond purchaser gave the city a premium check for $121.

In addition to the $575,000 payment for the bonds from the bidder, plus the premium, the city, this week, also received interest from July 1 to August 14 on the $575,000. This amounted to $2,213.31.

The entire $577,334.31 was deposited in the city's time deposit banking account until payment

Dr. Eric Berne Is Latest Local Author Of Published Book

Dr. Eric Berne's latest book, "Games People Play: The Psychology of Human Relationships," released this week by Grove Press, is the latest recently printed work of a local author.

Last week, Dr. Remsen Bird was so impressed by a collection of books by local writers in the window of an Ocean Avenue book store that he took a colored photograph of the display.

Included in the books was the recent output of 13 authors from the Carmel area. These books were published within the past 24 months.

Ovid Demaris, co-author of "The Green Felt Jungle," lived here while writing this bestseller.

Military Service News

Dean P. Funk, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold A. Funk, recently left the United States with Naval Mobile Reconstruction Battalion Five. A constructionman apprentice, he will be stationed on Okinawa where his battalion will build roads and buildings for the Third Marine Division.

Marine First Lieutenant Robert M. Leidig, who is the son of Mrs. Bernard H. Roberts and the grandson of Fire Marshal Bob Leidig, is serving as the commanding officer of Headquarters and Service Company, First Shore Party Battalion, First Marine Division at Camp Pendleton. A graduate of Oregon State University, he entered the service in 1960.

Private John R. Warmington, who graduated from Carmel High School in 1963, is in Germany with the 58th Engineer Company as a heavy equipment operator near Fulda. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Warmington. He entered the U.S. Army in January.

Peter G. Braudrick, the son of Mrs. Evelyn V. H. Braudrick, is a recruit at the Naval Training Center in San Diego.

AT SEMINAR

Dr. Charles N. Pearson will attend the 21st annual San Jose Vision Training Seminar this weekend at the Hyatt House in San Jose.

for Sunset School and site is to be made to the Carmel Unified School District on January 1, 1965.

Letter To Editor

Coast Gallery
Big Sur

Dear Editor:

This probably should be a paid public announcement to the effect that we decided not to sue the Pine Cone, or Photographer John Williams, for the photo that appeared on the front page of the Pine Cone.

After due thought, we decided there has not been such a classic example of "Grimness" since Grant Wood's "American Gothic."

If we have inspired any "pop" artists, we will pose for them even more grimly.

LaVerne Allen

Editor's Note:

The picture mentioned above appeared in the July 23 issue. It showed the signers of the letter guarding the Big Sur bulletin board with mammoth sugar scoops.

ELKS NEED TALENT FOR MUSICAL SHOW

The Monterey Elks Lodge announces the scheduling of four performances of a colorful musical review, "On the Town."

The musical comedy will be staged at the new Elks Lodge at 150 Mar Vista Drive in Monterey, on September 30 also on October 1, 2 and 3.

Sam Matar, head of the show committee, says the colorful review will be professionally staged, featuring local talent. The Elks will provide the theatre, the Hollywood professional group will furnish the costumes, director and props. A Peninsula-wide search for talent is now underway.

Head chairman, Willard Branson, reports the performances will benefit the Cerebral Palsy Fund, Gateway Center for retarded children and the Elks Scholarship Fund.

Auditions will be held in the near future. All persons residing on the Peninsula are invited to try out. Needed will be actors, singers, dancers, etc. Anyone interested may telephone the Monterey Elks Lodge, 373-3258 and leave a message.

CAMERA CLUB MEETS TONIGHT

The regular monthly summer meeting of the Padre Trails Camera Club will be held tonight in the music room at Carmel High School. A club contest on the subject matter "People At Work Or Play" will be held. Edw. C. Forsyth will act as judge and critic. Anyone interested in photography is invited to attend.

SUPPORT YOUR HOME-OWNED INDEPENDENT BANK! . . .

We are celebrating our . . .

ANNIVERSARY

1889-1964 Security Strong for 75 years . . .

History of Bank

Throughout the 75 years since its founding in Pacific Grove in 1889, the Security National Bank has maintained an unbroken record of Experience, Strength, Dependability, and Old-Fashioned Courtesy.

The bank has had only three Presidents during the past 75 years; E. Cooke Smith, the founder; Mr. A. O. Gates; and William A. Burkett, the present owner, who purchased the bank in 1961.

While retaining its Victorian character and early American spirit of independence and conscientiousness, the bank is expanding with five branch offices and a Trust Department to better serve the Monterey Bay area.

Security National Bank is Monterey County's only remaining home-owned, independent bank. Its stockholders are local and its Directors and Advisory Board members have local interests. The bank competes successfully with the 34 offices of San Francisco chain banks operating in Monterey County—and Security National, in many ways, sets the pace. Local ownership makes the difference.

Throughout the bank's history, "dependability" and "help" have been the basic words in our vocabulary. Since the bank was established, it has loaned millions to individuals and to businesses in the community. Thousands of people have benefited directly and indirectly for each dollar loaned over the past 75 years . . . None of our deposits are shipped to a distant city headquarters. All are invested with our local people who are such excellent risks that we have not had a foreclosure in the last 60 years . . . Everyone is welcome here and we are always ready to help you.

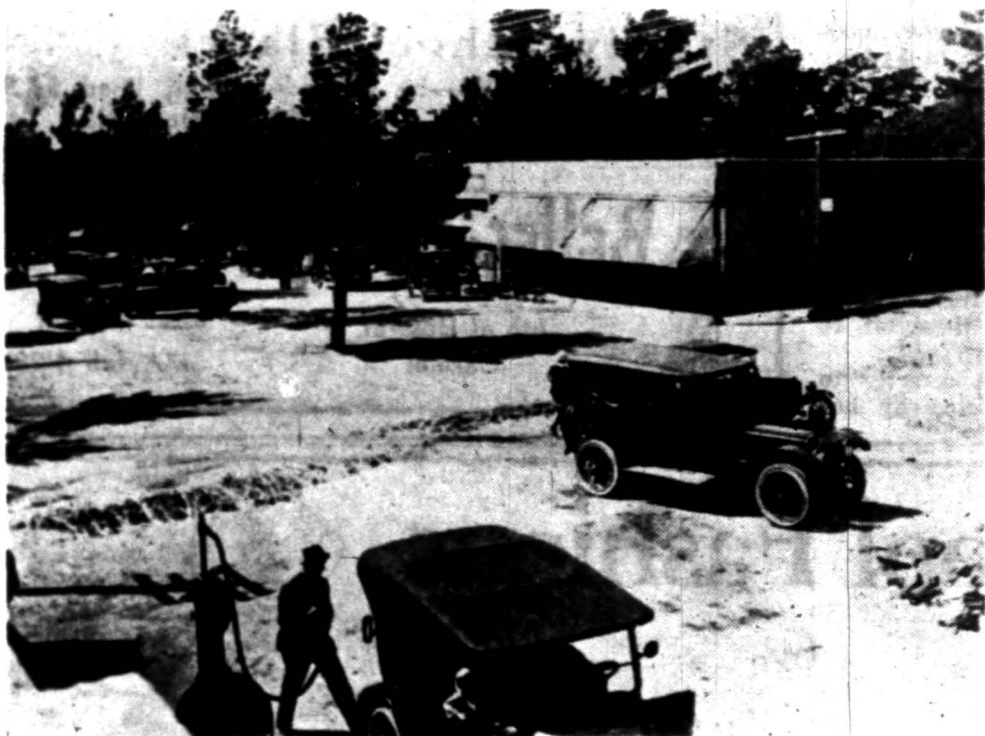

While big banks have become so highly computerized that many customers have become numbers, the Security National Bank has forged ahead by offering all banking services exclusively on an old-fashioned, highly confidential and personal basis. We were the first bank in California to restore the "customer hours" of the olden days of 8:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M. daily, and Saturday mornings from 9:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M.—It is a bank where every customer is important.

Our increase in the last 3 years in the number of NEW customers by six (6) times our previous total has been a story of the American way of initiative, competition and the opportunities of free enterprise.

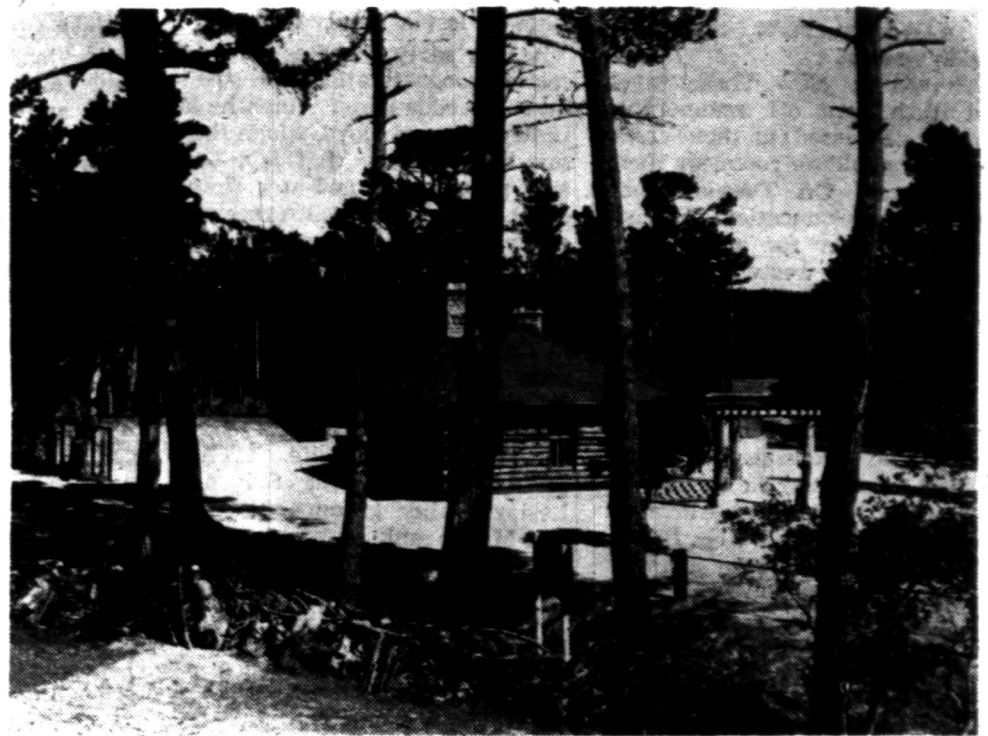

We are deeply grateful for the loyal support of our customers who tell their friends, and those friends who in turn continue to tell others, until your bank is one of the busiest places in town—filled with the nicest customers on earth.

On the Monterey Peninsula, it is "Smart to bank with Security."

Once you have tried Security's excellent quality, friendly, "person-to-person" banking service, you will never be satisfied with less.

Visiting the Hodges

Mrs. George Saxton (Harvia Hodges) of Scottsdale, Arizona, is here with her three children, Viki, Cathy and James, dividing her time between visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hodges and her brother and sister-in-law, Max and Norma Jean Hodges.

Hawaiian Report

Word from Hilary Belloc in Hawaii is that he saw Joe Hudson in his trimaran, "Southwind" sail from Lahaina for Tahiti last week. This is the craft that Joe built at Big Sur.

Hilary also reports that he saw Charlotte Townsend in Honolulu and that the "Altrusa," in which she sailed from Monterey to Hawaii, is lying off Kona. However he did not see the schooner's skipper, Bruce Harris, and other members of the crew.

Ruskells Rejoice

"It was like a second honeymoon," Sheldene Ruskell reports of the month's motor trip she and her husband, Speirs, enjoyed in Canada. "We left all the children at home in care of friends."

The Ruskells drove up the coast road to British Columbia where they spent five days with Speirs' brother, the Reverend Arnold Ruskell, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Vancouver, and his family.

Going on to Victoria, then Columbia River country, they arrived back in Carmel last Friday, just in time to take the children to Big Sur for a weekend of camping.

Due Home From Europe

After six months' travel in Europe, Ruth Downard and Janet Folsom of Pebble Beach are back in United States and are expected to be at home again, next week.

According to their letters to Mrs. Lloyd Simpson, the two travelers have "seen everything" in practically every country in Europe. Shortly after their arrival abroad they bought a car, and when they reached Genoa, to board the Leonardo da Vinci for the homeward voyage, the car was crammed with foreign labeled treasures they just couldn't resist.

Arrived in New York, Janet and Ruth, sent off innumerable parcels addressed to themselves, so there would be room for them in the car. On Tuesday they motored to Connecticut, to visit Janet's brother for a few days before turning westward.

Bronsons Vacation Here

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bronson of Piedmont and their son, William, are in Carmel for the coming month, staying in the Wirth home. The Bronsons were persuaded to summer in Carmel by their close friends, the Almon B. McCallums of Pebble Beach. "And one summer here just isn't enough," Mrs. Bronson says. "We are already looking forward to being here next year." William will leave Carmel in advance of his parents to return to Menlo College where he is a business student.

The Bronsons will entertain at the cocktail hour on Saturday afternoon.

Shower For Kathy

A bridal shower honoring Kathy Henderson, daughter of the Vern Hendersons, who will marry William Hunter III of Pebble Beach on September 6, was given by Mrs. Pearl J. Leighty in her Lower Trail home on Saturday evening.

Guests included Mrs. Vern Henderson, Mrs. Richard Muniz Jr., Mrs. Grant Russell, Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mrs. Dan Weiss, Mrs. Max Boyens, Mrs. Arthur Wise, Mrs. Carol Cramblett, Mrs. Harold Weston, Mrs. Wayne Bookamer and Mrs. Pat Harney. Also the Misses Gina Millington, Julie Campbell, Susan Hunter and Ann Brimhall.

As the guests approached the Leighty home they were enchanted by the unique decorations. Japanese lanterns cast a warm glow. The front door was festooned with white wedding bells and pink roses. The centerpiece of the refreshment table combined pink roses and tall wax tapers.

Leaving Carmel

Mr. and Mrs. Sid (Beulah) Vaughan, who during their short time here as managers of the Cypress West Hotel, made many friends, will leave Carmel September to take over the management of the Westwood Arms Apartment in Santa Clara. They have just returned from a holiday in Fullerton where they visited their daughter, Mrs. Dutch Clark, and their four-year-old twin grandsons, Mark and Mike.

Superintendent Speaks

Medill Bair, superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District, spoke yesterday afternoon for the staff orientation program of the Monterey County Office of Education in Salinas. The week-long orientation was planned to enable 14 new staff members to learn about educational systems and programs in the county.

Meet New Granddaughter

The cocktail-buffet party given Saturday evening by Mrs. Rush Hinsdale for her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Rossner of Brentwood, who were her houseguests, was more or less a family affair.

At the party, the Rossners received congratulations on their first granddaughter, month-old Lesley Morgan Lloyd, whom they saw the first time that day. Lesley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. (Skip) Lloyd, also received congratulations on the sister for their son, Peter, from Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bronson of Piedmont, who are spending a month in Carmel, and Mr. and Mrs. Almon B. McCallum of Pebble Beach and San Francisco. Others present were Mrs. Hinsdale's son, Tom, and his wife, Carolyn, of Rancho Rico, Big Sur, and Lesley's other grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd.

Visit Whitcombs

Here from San Jose for the weekend, Mrs. Terry (Jana) Britz and Miss Judy Miles were the houseguests of their mother, Mrs. Dexter Whitcomb. Judy has been taking a summer course at San Jose State College and will continue her studies there through the coming school year.

Ewigs' Son Visits

The Edwin Ewigs have been enjoying the visit of their younger son, Gordon, and his family who are now living in San Marino, where Gordon is vice-president of Forest Lawn Memorial Park of Los Angeles County.

Studying Conservation

Chuck Stotler enrolled on August 8 in the Conservation Training Camp at Philmont Scout Ranch in northeastern New Mexico.

He is a Life Scout in Troop 2 of the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, and is participating in a 12-day program at Carson Maxwell Camp at the southern end of the 137,000-acre ranch.

They "Sat By The Duchess"

Home on Sunday from a summer whirl across the British Isles and Europe, Mrs. Paul Budd, who took her daughter, Carla, and son-in-law, Robert Gingery along, had amazing and hilarious tales to tell.

The trio, picking up their ordered car in London, were labelled the Undaunted Californians by their staid English acquaintances. Hardly had they arrived in town before they decided to take off to the country. Intent upon seeing Shakespeare as performed in his home country, they were advised to go to Chester. On the outskirts of the ancient town they saw crowds entering the great gates of an estate. They went along. A flunky (very dressy) murmured something about tickets. Mrs. Budd looked bewildered—he looked sad—and on they went, now with a royal escort in their wake. Given chairs in a velvet draped "box" the three Carmelites found that they were a whisper away from the host of the afternoon, none less than the Duke of Gloucester and his lady, the Duchess.

The play was "Midsummer Night's Dream," thoroughly enjoyed by the gate-crashers, who also enjoyed the hearty tea served at the interval. From that adventure onward, Carla cultivated quite an English accent.

After touring Scotland and Wales the party went on to Europe to visit Switzerland, where they spent two weeks in art galleries and attending concerts. In Germany they explored ancient towns and hamlets. They found that Holland more than lived up to its reputation for quaintness in the villages, modernity in the cities. In France, they gave two weeks to swimming and resting in famed resorts.

The three flew home. The car, christened "Ludwig," is still homeward bound via the Panama Canal. Young Mr. and Mrs. Gingery were met at the San Francisco airport by Robert's parents who whisked them off to Sonoma County to "rest."

Mrs. Budd came directly to Carmel to be greeted by her younger daughter and son-in-law, Chris and Niki Wilkin, and their baby, Paul, who have been living in the Budd home on San Antonio during the summer months.

Janice Way Wed

With the Reverend John T. Ledger officiating, Janice Way, the daughter of Mrs. Demass Berne, became the bride of Michael Farlinger, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William James Farlinger of Monterey, on Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m.

On the arm of her stepfather, Dr. Eric Berne, Janice was preceded up the aisle of St. John's Episcopal Chapel by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robin Way, as her maid of honor, and bridesmaids, Miss Marcie Todd, and Miss Penny Pugmire.

Janice's bridal gown was a floor-length Empire model of Swiss organza with inserts of French lace and tiny tucks. Her bouffant veil of French silk illusion was three-tiered, shoulder length, and was crowned with a Dior bow. Marguerites and ivy were mingled in her bouquet.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length dresses of apricot linen and carried shower bouquets of marguerites.

Michael chose his brother, Richard Farlinger, as his best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Robin Way, and Jack Krusee.

Mrs. Berne wore a cocktail length dress of French blue silk with matching hat for her daughter's wedding. A tiny bouquet of yellow roses adorned her purse.

The reception was held in the bride's home where Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farlinger cut their fourtiered wedding cake.

The bridegroom's mother donned a formal afternoon suit of navy blue, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

For travel Janice wore a jumper of cream-toned ottoman over a silk shirt of yellow and white polka dots. Her wool top coat was sun yellow. The young couple are touring Lake County.

Upon their return they will live in San Francisco, where Michael will continue his executive training course in merchandising at the Emporium.

An honored guest at the wedding was Mrs. W. Alan Brecht of Atlanta, Georgia, maternal grandmother of the bride.

Honey Williams Home

Honey Williams, the daughter of Mrs. Russell Williams of Carmel Highlands, is home again after a year at the Villa Mercedes, in Florence, Italy. Honey, in a jubilant mood, told of the school where she majored in the history of art, and her travels. She couldn't quite decide which intrigued her most, the beauty of Greece or the fascination of London's art galleries, museums and theatres.

Since her arrival here, the Williams home has been crowded with welcoming friends. There was a welcome home party last Saturday evening and another party is in formation for this Saturday evening.

With a teaching career her aim, Honey will enter Monterey Peninsula College in September.

Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park

"Dear Camper, we are sorry that we have to turn you away but all campsites are filled."

Now that the height of the summer vacation season is here, scores of people who arrive at the entrance station at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, find that the camping areas are filled, and the ranger on duty has no alternative but to turn them away.

Before leaving, the visitor receives a note beginning with "Dear Camper." It goes on to tell them that "if you desire to spend more than one night at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park you may place your name on our waiting list and answer the roll call. This is not a reservation system but a means of assistance and control. The roll call-waiting list system has been established to give the camping public a more equitable and efficient service and still maintain the state park policy of 'First Come — First Served.'" While waiting to gain entrance to a camping space, it is suggested that visitors may wish to stay at one of the four privately-owned campgrounds in the vicinity. The note concludes with, "Thank you for your patience and we wish you pleasant camping."

Twice within the past few weeks, over 5,000 persons have used the varied facilities of the park on a given day. This includes, in addition to those actually camping within the park, "day use" such as family picnic gatherings, use of the swimming pool and river, nature walks and trails, etc.

The 218 camping spaces, accommodating a maximum of eight persons each, are in constant use. In addition, there are three "group areas," one provides for 100 people, one for 30 and one for 40. These particular areas are open to recognized groups only, such as Girl and Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls, youth and church groups, etc. Group areas are so popular that by mid-spring each year the spaces have been reserved for the entire summer period. These are available only upon written request.

Supervising the park, maintaining it, providing for the safety and enjoyment of the hundreds of thousands of people that use it each year (in 1963 there were 440,000) is a highly efficient staff. Donald Royer is supervisor, assisted by Roger Wertz and three rangers, Fred Parson, Harry Batlin and Robert Robles. Park attendants are Kenneth Cortright, Marion Hanshaw, Martin Forster and William Harnett. During the heavy use periods of summer there are an additional five park aides and two full-time lifeguards.

Within the park area, too, there is the Big Sur Lodge, with diningroom, fountain, grocery store and hotel and cabin facilities. These are operated on a concession arrangement from May until September.

Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park is one of the most popular parks in the California state park system. It combines many of nature's activities, a broad valley bisected by the lovely Big Sur River, mountains that rise abruptly from sea level to over 3,000 feet, an abundance of trees, redwoods, cottonwoods, sycamore and oak.

Hiking trails and nature walks are well planned and naturalists supervise the shorter walks giving informative talks on the flora and the fauna and the geology of the Big Sur country. Deer, wild boar, raccoons and numbers of smaller animals frequent the park.

Dr. Pauling's New Home

Dr. and Mrs. Linus Carl Pauling have a new home under construction on their beautifully situated property on the coast between Gorda and Salmon Creek. It was near this site that the famed American chemist and foe of nuclear testing, received word last fall that he had been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. At that time the scientist and professor of chemistry at the California Institute of Technology, and Mrs. Pauling were vacationing in a cabin on their ranch. Dr. Pauling was summoned to the telephone at the U.S. Forest Service ranger station at Salmon Creek where he received the news of the high honor. It was the second Nobel Peace Prize awarded to Pauling, the first was won in 1954.

Quarry Hearing Postponed

The application for operation of a rock quarry in Joshua Canyon, scheduled for a hearing before the Monterey County Board of Supervisors this week, has been postponed until August 31 at 10:30 a.m. in the supervisors chambers, Salinas. In a previous action, the Monterey County Planning Commission denied the application of John Louis Lange to operate the granite rock quarry which is situated off of Garra-pata Creek, 11 miles south of Carmel.

Loma Vista Gardens

The Loma Vista Gardens in Big Sur are attracting a steady flow of visitors at this season when their unusual and abundant collection of tuberous begonias are in full blossom. Early this year, the owners, Alice and Steve Jaeger, rearranged and rebuilt many areas of their lath-covered gardens, to make a more attractive background and display for these beautiful and colorful flowers. The glass house, too, has been refurbished, with rows of handmade redwood growing containers. One of the most prominent additions, and one that has brought much pleasure to visitors, as well as the owners, is a handsome waterfall, made from a giant limestone boulder found on the coast south of Big Sur. The great rock had become dislodged during the rainy season. The lovely shape and contours of the stone were seen and appreciated by the Jaegers and in it they saw the possibility of making a waterfall for their garden. It took special equipment and considerable maneuvering to place the giant piece at Loma Vista, then many weeks of careful, thoughtful, work to convert it to a continuously running waterfall. Well-placed ferns, orchids and a variety of plants around the "falls", also about the pool at its base, have made this section of the gardens especially attractive.

In addition to the tuberous begonias, Loma Vista Gardens have an extraordinary collection of epiphyllum and cacti.

The gardens are open daily. Thousands of tourists, neighbors, friends stop to enjoy the beauty and take photographs. There is no admission charge, but many visitors show their appreciation by making a donation at a place provided. Such donations go to some worthwhile project of the owners' choosing. Up until the time that the Community Hospital in Carmel-Monterey became a reality, there was a sign at the garden house entrance which read:

"There is no charge to visit our gardens. Any money collected will be donated for a new hospital in Carmel under: 'Donated by tourists who have traveled Highway One.'"

Dr. Don Parker had the experience, one afternoon last week, of sitting in his Coastlands home and, by telephone, teaching at Columbia University in New York City.

First a group of educators at Columbia saw slides and heard a taped lecture by Dr. Parker.

Then members of the group asked questions which were relayed by telephone to Big Sur. Dr. Parker's answers to the queries were transmitted by long distance telephone to the group of school superintendents from 19 states and four foreign countries present at the Columbia symposium.

Dr. Parker, educational psychologist and multilevel curriculum consultant, and Mrs. Parker, moved from Evanston, Illinois, to the former Voss home at Coastlands this Spring.

He spent a month conducting a month-long seminar this summer at Columbia on "Theory and Development of Individualized Instructional Materials."

PUTTS NEW RESIDENTS

Recently appointed assistant manager of the Bank of America here, Wendell L. Putt has been with the bank, in the Berkeley area, for the past ten years. With becoming "real Carmelites" their aim, the family, including Mrs. Putt and their five-year-old son, Joseph, are already settled in their new home at Junipero and Tenth. Joseph will attend the River School kindergarten in the autumn.

"The Pajama Game" Triumphant Climax To White Oaks Theatre Summer Musical Comedy Season

Tuneful, romantic and telling an honest-to-goodness story, "The Pajama Game," as presented by the talented young players of Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre, is indeed a triumphant climax to the summer season of musical comedies.

From the moment the curtains parted, revealing the work-room of the Sleep Tight Pajama Factory where a line-up of very attractive, very gay young ladies, garbed in an amazing array of smocks or shifts, are stitching, singing and cavorting, the play — wonderfully, swiftly paced — was an unqualified success.

The story, a grand mixture of young love, a money-hungry factory owner, trade union rules, and leaders for workers' rights, is told in dialogue, song and dance.

Producer Sally Hughes Church, director Danny Fix, choreographer Gale Peterson, and musical director Chris Nance have done a spectacular job. Donald Mulderick, technical director; Susan Scott Weiner, costume designer; Donald Mulderick, responsible for lighting; and Bruce Harrow with Donald Mulderick, set designers, give brilliant support.

The cast is headed (if one follows the inevitable rule of naming the romantic pair as the "leads") by auburn-haired Mary Pattie Mitchell in the role of Babe Williams and Raymond Alex as Sid. Miss Mitchell, graduate of Los Angeles City College, where she was awarded title of "Outstanding Actress" and "Outstanding Student" during her undergraduate days, is possessor of a beautiful, well-trained voice, as well as dramatic talent and a particular flair for comedy. In her current performance this young actress is to be complimented upon her smooth transition of pace and shading in a role demanding widely varied moods.

Raymond Alex, also a Los Angeles City College graduate, where he majored in theatre arts, has both talent and personality. While his singing voice seemed to this reviewer to lack power, his delivery was excellent. In his solos "A New Town Is a Blue Town," and "Hey There," the young actor completely won his audience. In duet with Miss Mitchell, singing the hilarious "Small Talk" and "There Once Was a Man," the pair won show-stopping applause.

If "The Pajama Game" might be said to have two leading men, Dolph Baumann for his interpretation of the side-splitting comic of the evening, Hines, should have his name right up there in lights! In constant trouble, in love, and tireless in his efforts to capture his gal, this effervescent young actor-writer (graduate of the University of Wisconsin, with a wealth of nightclub revue successes to his credit), carried the burden of the evening, with unforgettable success! In duet with Sue Weiner, character actress and gifted vocalist, the pair's antics and singing, earned thunderous approval from the audience. Incidentally Miss Weiner's appearance in a shocking pink nightie is worth the ten-mile trip up the Valley.

Dancing honors must go to pretty, pretty Sandra Lundwall. In the role of Gladys, Miss Lundwall first established herself as a delightful comedienne. Her dancing and singing throughout the play were outstanding. But it was in the presentation of "Steam Heat," the show's top production number, that Sandra with dancers Mitch Marco and J. Alan Lugo (who also appeared in acting roles) stole the show.

Beautifully choreographed, staged and lighted, "Steam Heat" as presented at White Oaks, was a sheer delight.

Also, not to be resisted, is a rave for another production number involving the entire cast, "Hernando's Hideaway" with Miss Lundwall as soloist.

With his amazing adaptability, the popular young actor Chris Milo, whose characterizations throughout the season have won high praise, appears as the crafty, hard-hearted factory magnate, Hasler. He more than lived up to expectations, he was great!

Additional members of the cast, each giving a fine performance, were Les Medall whose singing of the zany "Her Is" with Miss Lundwall was top comedy; Dave Jenkinson, Ron Stark, Kate Porter, Diana Kathleen Draper. Also, Sally Champion, Jerry DeWilde, Marilyn Fowler and Mary Bridget Mulkey. Dancers and singers were Toni Brandt, Esther Beth Makinstern, Suzi Johnson and Jeni Fosnot.

Chris Nance, White Oaks musical director, and pianist throughout all performances, was energetically assisted by drummer David Rosenkrantz of Carmel. Talented and apparently inexhaustible, these two musicians manage to give the impression of being a complete orchestra!

The reviewer would consider it a distressing error to overlook

Mrs. Ruster Heads Community Chest In Residence Area

Mrs. John Ruster has accepted the chairmanship of residential solicitation in Carmel for the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest campaign this fall.

Her appointment was announced today by Jack Kern, general chairman of the campaign. Mrs. Ruster has been busy in numerous community activities in the years she has resided in Carmel.

Last year Carmel residential, under the guidance of Mrs. Clem Ale, was responsible for raising $31,442 of the $160,000 raised over the entire Peninsula.

City quotas have not yet been set. However, the chest will be announcing a goal for the agencies somewhat higher than the $160,000 raised last year.

August H. Johnson of Carmel, president of the chest, notes that the chest budget committee has met ten times this spring and early summer to review the budgets of member agencies.

This is the chest's manner of doing all possible to determine that allocations are made on the basis of need, he pointed out.

On Monday afternoon, at 2 p.m., Martha Christine ("Teena") Welty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Welty, former Carmelites, now living in Sacramento, became the bride of Stephen Russell Harris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Harris of Sacramento and Pebble Beach.

The ceremony took place in All Saints' Episcopal Church with the Reverend David Hill officiating. Teena was christened in the same church in 1944. Mrs. Richard W. Johnson was her godmother.

Tall, slim, raven-haired and dark-eyed Teena was a dramatically beautiful bride. Her gown was of antique ivory-toned slipper satin. The fitted bodice, with its high neckline and wrist-length sleeves, was yoked with rose point lace and medallions of the lace bordered the voluminous floor-length skirt. Her pale yellow veil, of French illusion net, floated to the full length of the two-and-a-half yard train of her gown. Lilies of the valley were used in her bridal bouquet.

Given away by her father, Teena was preceded down the aisle by Mardi Jacobs of Sacramento as her maid of honor, also, as bridesmaids, Kreigh Trevvett of Carmel, Mrs. James Hawkins, Mrs. David Clegg and Mrs. Richard Harrison all of Sacramento. Their floor-length dresses were of sun-yellow organdy over taffeta. Dior bows topped their shoulder-length veils and they carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Stephen was attended by Donald Geddes of Mill Valley as best man. Ushering were John A. Welty, the bride's brother, Michael Mertz, Richard Harrison and David Clegg, all of Sacramento.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Welty chose a formal suit of beige crepe with a blouse of Irish lace. Her tiny hat was of came a member of Alpha Delta Pi fraternity. Now, with teaching fine arts appreciation and history his aim, Stephen has enrolled at Iowa State University.

Teena, having completed her junior year at Sacramento State College, plans to attend Iowa State and obtain the one term credits essential to win her a bachelor of arts degree.

With her wedding plans to be completed, Teena and her mother arrived in Carmel on Friday and were houseguests of Teena's godmother, Mrs. Richard Johnson, over the weekend.

Following the wedding rehearsal on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the entire wedding party at dinner at Del Monte Lodge. On Monday, Mrs. Johnson gave a luncheon in her home for the bride and her attendants while the bridegroom's mother was hostess in her Pebble Beach home for Stephen, his best man and ushers.

Return From Honeymoon

Just returned from their wedding trip to Lake Tahoe, Mr. and Mrs. George Atanas Daskaloff are living in George's "bachelor apartment" in Carmel while they search for a home to buy.

Mrs. Daskaloff is the former Ruth Evelyn Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fletcher Rogers of Carmel Highlands. She attended Carmel schools and is a graduate of Carmel High School and Heald's Business College.

George Daskaloff, born in Bulgaria, came to the United States in 1928, and currently is the purchasing agent for Fort Ord.

Son of Mrs. Atanas G. Daskaloff and the late Mr. Daskaloff of Detroit, he is a member of the Russian Orthodox Church. Ruth has become a convert to her husband's faith and their August 2 marriage ceremony was held in St. Seraphim Church in Seaside.

Schlepps Coming To U.S.

A letter from Katie Schlepp says that her husband, Wayne, has been appointed associate professor of Chinese at the University of Wisconsin. Consequently, next week the Schlepps are leaving England where they have been living for the past six years.

Katie also reports that her daughter, Heidi Ruster, and Heidi's grandmother, Mrs. Robert Oberföhren, both of Carmel, visited her this summer. She was expecting to see the Donnan Jeffers family, too, when they arrived in England.

As to coming back to Carmel, where she lived for many years, Katie says it will be "sometime in 1965."

They were chosen for this training by Carmel High School and the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross. Scholarship and potential leadership ability was the basis for their selection. A corps of Red Cross specialists in youth training and development will guide the three students during their time at UCD.

Off Around the World

Utterly carefree and planning to see the world so wide, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moody left Carmel on Wednesday for two years of travel on the high seas.

They will sail today aboard the freighter Norlan'ger, for South America.

"We have no definite itinerary," Mrs. Moody said, "but plan to stay south of the equator until we reach New Zealand, and then go on to Asia and Europe. We are going with our objectives relaxation, fun, new faces, new scenes."

Another Book About Cookery Published By Phyllis Jervey

By Johanne Carlson
 A WORLD OF PARTIES is the title of a "Gourmet Guide to Exciting Parties" by Phyllis Jervey, a sometime Carmel resident who divides her time between a Georgetown house in Washington, D.C. and the home of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Pulliam, of Carmel.

Once again the noted publisher, Charles E. Tuttle Company, of Tokyo, Japan and Rutland Vermont, requested the favor of handling this very special kind of a cookery book by Mrs. Jervey. This means, per se, that the book, in addition to its contents which will whet the appetite of all readers, is also an art book. From the jacket on to the last page illustrated by the Japanese artist Hide Doki, this is a volume to cherish and to consult.

You will love it, whether you are in the mood for preparing a North African banquet for your guests, treating them to Oasis Peppercorn Lamb with Spicy Rice and Tchekuka (a tantalizing recipe of vegetables and eggs) or wish to settle for Japanese hibachi hospitality! In the latter case you would dream up with Phyllis Jervey's aid a clear clam soup, chicken (or beef) teriyaki, you'd barbecue prawns, a la Jervey, and you'd make sure to have warm sake on hand, also green tea. The rare treats to which the author will initiate you may come from the Caribbean area or from Turkey. Indeed there is a world of cookery between the pages of this fine volume priced at $4.75.

The previous book by this master of cookery, "Spice and Rice," has gone around the world with gourmets who are on the alert for new ideas. Praised by all food editors on this continent, Mrs. Jervey derives her knowledge and skill from her travels. Born in El Paso, Texas, educated in Switzerland, she is the daughter of a foreign service officer. As the wife of a West Pointer she traveled and resided in many countries of the world.

She has published articles on cookery in Vogue, Better Homes and Gardens, Good Housekeeping and House and Garden. For the past nine years she has been food and party editor of U.S. Lady, a publication which goes to women, wives and daughters of men in all of the armed forces all over the world.

Our compliments to Mrs. Pulliam on this new achievement of her daughter.

State Law Says All Students Must Have Polio Vaccine Doses

Now is the time for all elementary and high school students, also junior college students under 21, who have not been vaccinated against polio to take required vaccine doses.

State law requires that every student entering school must present evidence of vaccination against polio, or must complete this requirement in a reasonable time. Students are requested to go to private physicians or the Monterey County Health Department for vaccine.

In Monterey, immunization clinics are held every Wednesday morning from 8:15 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the clinic located at 550 Calle Principal. Students coming alone must have parental permission or bring appropriate immunization records.

"The Health Department uses 2-dose (trivalent) vaccine which provides protection against the 3 types of paralytic polio," stated Dr. Myron Husband, local health officer, "and these must be given at least eight weeks apart."

Status or requirements for booster doses for older children and adults have not been definitely determined yet. Current expert opinion suggests a booster dose two to four years after completing the initial series.

Local Folk-Singers Display Fine Talent

by Ted Parrett

The picturesque Forest Theater was the scene of one of the finest gatherings of talent this area has seen in many a long day. And probably the most pleasant aspect of the whole affair was the fact all this great talent was local.

The time was last Sunday afternoon. The sun shone on a capacity audience attending the free concert sponsored by the Carmel Art Commission.

Opening the bill, the Silver Slipper square dancers gave an exhibition of old-time dancing, followed by the 19th Street Singing and Marching Society String Band, in which Keith Nelson's banjo playing was quite outstanding.

Other highlights of the show were provided by Lisa of Carmel Valley, singing "Venga Jaleo" very effectively while accompanying herself on the guitar. Mike Sherry was good, as usual, singing some well-known folk songs and also some which she had written herself.

Eleanor Wallace, another Carmel lady, put on a very fine act, which far surpassed some better known entertainment. Her mystical songs and guitar and lute music should be shared with much larger audiences. Her self-composed works denote universality of feeling.

During part of her act she was joined by five children whom Emcee Rob Mahr dubbed the "Blue Jeans." Also there appeared a bearded Scotch bagpipe player whose vast repertoire included the singing of a deeply ethnic song about a man who disguised himself as an omnibus conductor in order to spy on his girlfriend. It is rumored that this magnificent artist is experimenting with a new instrument called the Bag Banjo, sometimes known as a Banjpipes.

Closing the show the well-known local entertainer, Kit Snow, gave his ever-popular and fine rendition of two songs which he authored, Samson & Delilah and Old Blue. Both these numbers exhibited his fine guitar playing to its best advantage. Segovia once said, "The guitar is a complete orchestra." Kit Snow surely corroborates this. His playing is highly descriptive, in the tradition of Peter and the Wolf.

Congressman Burt L. Talcott (left) wished Lawrence D. Horan well in his new duties as Peace Corps director in Costa Rica when Mr. Horan called at Mr. Talcott's office recently in Washington, D.C. In Costa Rica, Mr. Horan will be responsible for the conduct of all Peace Corps activities. In preparation for his position, he studied Spanish at the Defense Language Institute while a member of the Carmel law firm of Farr, Horan, Willson and Lloyd. He is presently being briefed on Costa Rican and Peace Corps procedures. His family, now in Florida, will join him in Costa Rica after living accommodations have been arranged for them. They will all return here following their stay in Costa Rica.

On completion of his solo performance he introduced two people with whom he intends to form a trio. Their presentation on Sunday shows evidence of great promise. The two people with whom he has teamed up are Mike Noon and his sister, Nancy. They call themselves "Noon, Noon & Snow, Ltd. But Not Very." Mike is well-known to local clubgoers as a very funny comedian whose original material has kept a Monterey cantina's patrons laughing for many months. This highly presentable and extremely entertaining trio was received with thunderous applause and cries of encore.

It will be well worth your time to catch their concert at the Sunset auditorium on October 3.

CHURCH IN THE ROUND LAY SUNDAY SPEAKER

The political and moral aspects of current relation between church and state in this country will be discussed by Gerald Fowler at the Church in the Round's Lay Sunday service this weekend in the American Legion Hall, Dolores near Eighth, at 11:02 a.m.

Mr. Fowler has had one year of graduate work at Harvard Law School, where his major interest was criminal defense and constitutional law. He plans to return to Harvard after his work as a trial counsel at Fort Ord ends in January. His B.A. in political science was received at the University of Illinois with a Phi Beta Kappa key for highest distinction in political science and honors in liberal arts and science.

The usual talkback will follow the church service.

Nowadays chores cost you less because your PG&E rates have gone down

Nearly everything has gone up in price these days—except your PG&E rates. In fact, there have been 3 gas and electric rate reductions in the past 3 years. Today the typical PG&E household customer pays less than 30 years ago for the same amount of gas and electricity. But count the things around your home that gas and electricity are doing for you and your family today. You are using 3 times as much as families did 30 years ago. So naturally though the unit price is lower, your bill is bigger. Even so, you live better for less because PG&E service is a bigger bargain than ever.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Joan Comay is the wife of a former Israeli ambassador to Canada. Her new book entitled ISRAEL was written from first hand knowledge. It is called a comprehensive profile, whatever that means, and it begins with a short history of the country and goes on to describe conditions as they are today. A short, concise book with photographic illustrations, that's what it is.

Once upon a time there lived in San Francisco a group of men called the "Sydney Ducks." Being short of both cash and morals, they decided to set fire to the city as a prelude to looting. They began their depredations by assaulting several store-keepers and robbing them. The whole thing led to the organization of the COMMITTEE OF VIGILANCE and that is the subject and the title of George Stewart's new book. The committee lasted for 100 days. At its beginning it numbered 103 men, but later it grew to a membership of about 710. The San Francisco group became the spearhead for the organization of like groups in other places. It was apparently a revolution against crime. Mr. Stewart based his book on secret records of the committee and on contemporary newspaper articles.

THE CAPTIVE SEA is a book about the capturing and housing of the marine animals in our large oceanariums. It was written by Craig Phillips, a marine biologist and curator of the Seaquarium in Miami. He is also an artist and his book is filled with interesting drawings. This is a fascinating account of sea animals that often seem as human as we do. Perhaps more so!

We have four new books on the craft of writing. We did what we call utilizing local knowledge. In other words we asked someone. In this case the someone was our own Maxine Shore, who moonlights by teaching creative writing. She recommended these. Taking them alphabetically, we begin with a book by Paul Engle entitled ON CREATIVE WRITING. It is composed of articles by teachers in the Iowa Program in Writing. They discuss such topics as the writing of short stories, of articles, of poetry, and finally of novels and plays.

In the second spot we have Robert Hillyer's FIRST PRINCIPLES OF VERSE. He speaks of metre and metrical forms, of various types of verse, and finally discusses the art of reading poetry aloud. Then we have David Lambuth's book THE GOLDEN BOOK ON WRITING. David Lambuth was a professor at Dartmouth who deplored the low level of undergraduate writing, and did something about it. He wrote this book. It has a foreword by Budd Schulberg, who was a student of Lambuth and admired him greatly. This is a small book and every word counts.

Finally, we have BREAKING INTO PRINT by Edward Weeks of the Atlantic Monthly. This is more the how-to-start sort of thing. So here we have four books converging on the same subject, but from what different angles!

Keith Baines has done a rendering into modern idiom of Sir Thomas Malory's Le Morte d'Arthur. An introduction by Robert Graves gives a brief account of the life and adventures of Sir Thomas himself which are almost enough to put King Arthur to shame. The old magic is here in these well-known tales.

(Continued From Page One) terms of findings in the various national studies that have been made. Third, they are trying to coordinate the various curricular changes which have been dictated by the State of California through book adoptions made by the State Board of Education with local curriculum.

Further university study, travel, and attendance at a variety of conferences by members of the school staff have made, and will continue to make, further progress possible.

For example, Charles Moody, a Carmel High School teacher, received a Coe Scholarship in American History and has attended Stanford University this summer. In addition, he is engaged in designing an advanced program course for Carmel students in American History.

Clyde Klaumann, teacher at Sunset, is presently attending Harvard University in the Harvard-Lexington summer program, where he is involved in studying an elementary team-teaching organization designed to meet the individual needs of each pupil.

Warren Edwards, principal of Carmel High School, received a John Hays Scholarship Award, and spent the month of July studying at Williams College in Massachusetts with a group of 50 teachers and administrators from throughout the United States. While in the East he has also been in conference with several leading educators on the purpose of improving our secondary schools.

Medill Bair, superintendent of Carmel Unified School District, recently attended the Advanced Administrative Institute of Harvard University and was involved in the study of recent educational developments in the broader context of anthropology, sociology, economics, and studies in automation and the newer instructional media.

Herbert Reuter, science teacher at the junior high school was selected as one of 30 earth science teachers in the United States to work at the University of Missouri developing new materials and instructional matter for a junior high school science program.

Finally, Dan Yurkovich, interim principal at Carmel Junior High School for the year 1964-1965, has recently returned from a conference in Portland, Oregon, devoted to ways and means of better communication of the problems of education to the staff and general public for the purpose of working out most of these problems.

A.F.A. Announces Art Competition With $300 Prizes

Application blanks are now on the press for a First Annual Competitive Exhibition to be held from October 15 through November 10 entitled "Monterey County Painting—1964." Sponsored by the Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Arts, it will be held in their gallery on Lincoln Street and will be open to all residents of Monterey County.

Three prizes of $300 each will be awarded by Juror Paul Mills, director of the Oakland Art Museum, and one of the three winners will be chosen to have a one-man show in the Carmel gallery in June, 1965.

Artists wishing entry blanks may get in touch with the A.F.A. Gallery where the blanks will be available the first of next week.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Mind" will be the subject this Sunday in the last of a series of Bible Lessons on names belonging to God, being presented at all Christian Science churches.

"He that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declareth unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name" (Amos 4) will be included in the Bible readings.

To be heard also is this statement from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 256): "Infinite Mind is the creator, and creation is the infinite image or idea emanating from this Mind. If Mind is within and without all things, then all is Mind; and this definition is scientific."

Heartbreak And Hilarity Mix To Make "The Time Of Your Life" At Circle Theatre Unforgettable

As presented at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre by the Fresno State College Theatre Workshop with the cast a blend of workshop and experienced local talent, William Saroyan's classic "The Time of Your Life" promises you an unforgettable evening. You will see fine acting on the part of 25 men and women, who through the highly talented insight and untiring aim at perfection of Director Nick Zanides, are indeed the characters they portray.

From the moment the lights went up, with Sam Karas as Nick, the proprietor-bartender of San Francisco's Pacific Street Saloon, ignoring the shabby "bar fly" Arab, played by Tom Twist, also with a watchful eye on Joe, the philosopher upon whose dreams and benevolence the story pivots, enacted by Morgan Stock, Saroyan's tale, his weaving into a network of cause and effect the lives of characters, widely separated by environment, social status and aspirations, held the audience spell-bound.

For this reviewer it is impossible to label Mr. Saroyan's masterpiece, (for which incidentally he refused a Pulitzer Prize). It is neither a comedy nor a tragedy, yet it has moments of heart break and hilarity. It is a slice out of many lives, inter-related by chance or, if one believes, by the hand of a pitying and merciful God.

From the theatrical point of view "The Time of Your Life" is a series of character vignettes, and as presented at the Circle, each and every performer gives a well-nigh flawless portrayal.

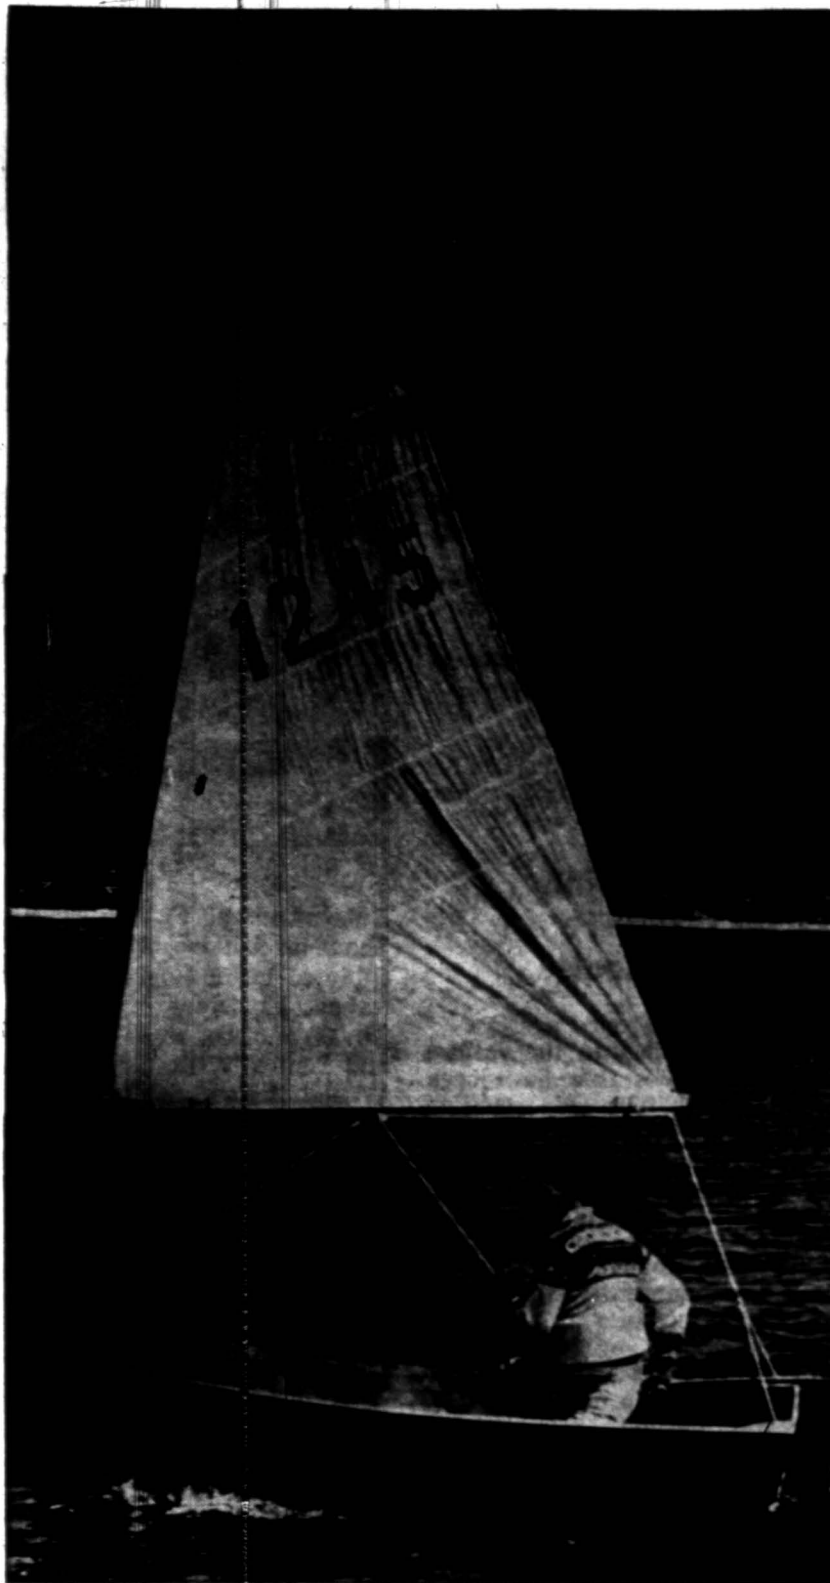

To actors Morgan Stock, and Sam Karas, one must tender the starring laurels.

On stage almost every moment of the evening, playing widely different roles, they are Saroyan's characters, at times humorous, disillusioned, tender and skeptical.

As the scrawny, swaggering, fast-talking lovable liar, Kit Carson, Duke Everts brought to the Circle stage just about the funniest most lovable character within my memory! His whopping lies came forth in a high nasal swing with unbelievable gusto and verve. That he should have the pleasure of shooting Blick, the thoroughly hateful swaggering plainclothes man, quite perfectly portrayed by Ron Martin, and killing him dead, was certainly a satisfaction.

Handsome young John Elber as Tom, protege of Joe the philosopher, and in love with Kitty played his role with finesse and rare understanding; toughness, tenderness and bewilderment were all part of Tom's character and Mr. Elber, with fine dramatic instinct, actually under-played. His scenes with Morgan Stock and with Megan McBride were entrancingly real.

True to its bar room setting, Saroyan's story was told mostly by men. Arab, the drunk at the bar with his repititious drone "No foundation"; the cheery newsboy, knowing a generous man when he sees one (Kevin Stock); the down-and-outers enacted by John Miller, Don Rose, Dick Vreeland, Ed Burke, John Heinan, Mike Larimer and Ron Moore, each left their unforgettable impression. Rory Coster, as the understanding cop; Terry Poland as the sailor; and Alvin Kaufman as the society gentlemen visiting the "slums" rounded out the play's reality.

—Julian P. Graham Studio

Dan Hudson, above, was Class A winner in the El Toro Junior Championships at the Stillwater Yacht Club on Sunday. Wendy Clark took first place in Class B of the same event. All competitors were under 15 years of age on January 1. Other entrants in Class A (for more experienced competitors) finished in the following order: Don Smythe, Brad Stewart, David Hughes, Tony Bates, Kent Hughes, Dan Dougherty and Greg Canavaro. Those who followed Wendy Clark in Class B were Pam Wedlake, John Clancy, Louise von Hasseln, Page Wedlake, Jody Bunn, Deven Dougherty, Curt Hayes, Vicki Bell, Anne Neill, Sheila Hatley, Kent Fiedling, Lewis Bray and Dave Hudder.

Miss Megan McBride, as Kitty, the young and unwilling prostitute, with heart-breakingly lovely dreams of what her life might be, played her difficult role with superb nuance and timing. Despite the heavy blatant make-up and gaudy costuming required by the part, this young actress's charm and beauty came through.

Valerie Meyer, streetwalker on her own, chilled one's heart in her beautifully-handled all-too-short scene. Delia Paladino, Layne Littlepage and Christine Walker, a trio from around the disreputable neighborhood, added greatly to the play's atmosphere of accepted degradation.

As the society lady "on a slumming tour," Barbara Kendall, in her cameo role made an indelible impression. In a perilously short space of time allotted her, Miss Kendall created a very real person and one felt that the author must have thoroughly liked her.

The set designs by Barbara Tripp; lighting by Rory Coster and Dale Murray; special effects by Larry Leisk and properties by Dee Nickels were a triumph. Wardrobe Mistress Myrtle Sperling's costumes deserve long and loud applause. Roselle Weinfield, responsible for the character's make-up contributed immeasurably to the over-all success.

"The Time of Your Life" is not sad, nor sordid. It is a study of life and time and human relationships... it is summed up in Saroyan's own words, "In the time of your life, live—so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches."

"The Time of Your Life" plays Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Circle. The run is limited. Don't miss! —C.E.

ON and OFF the AVENUES

BY CAROLYN ELSTOB

Everywhere I turn this week, Back to School, is the conversational theme. Nursery school, kindergarten, elementary school, junior high, real high and then college campus fashions are dazzling mothers and daughters and dazing exchequer dads. Never have I seen such an assortment of brand-new togs from toddler to teen-age and Misses to matrons' sizes. Do you know just about halfway through my exploration trek I murmured — "All this trend toward Scotch certainly brightens the autumn and winter ahead . . . and I definitely recommend the brandy!" Please be calm! The Scotch tweeds and plaids are ultra for Fall and Winter . . . and brandy, aged and mellow, is the newest and most universally flattering color I've set eyes upon!

For blithe spirits, who above all, I-o-v-e to see the green-eyed monster peeping through the shining eyes of their best women friends, the Rose Brown Boutique has the mostest. Italian knits! French knits! And leather suits, jumpers and formals from Israel such as no sane woman ever dreamed of. My most frantic find of the week in this treasure spot was the full-length knitted coat (No! it definitely will not sag or stretch). Wear it over casual clothes or over your best when you are off for an evening's wing-ding. Colors? Brandy of course, and that new cloud grey fascinated me.

The leather affairs, soft as butter, are various — jumpers, two-piece dresses, suits, coats. They are exquisitely styled, and practical too—spots just wipe off in a jiffy. Whether or not you need it—do see the poncho suit, it's wizard . . . and those luscious silk shifts that will take you anywhere posh, after five. ROSE BROWN BOUTIQUE, CARMEL PLAZA, OCEAN AVENUE.

When you see a lady turning into the Sow's Ear you just know that she has fashion wisdom. She knows that whether she is clad in a shirt and pants, a town ensemble or is looking forward to slipping into a floor-length formal, her accessories, particularly the hand bag she carries, whether it be simply e-n-o-r-m-o-u-s or just big enough for her lipstick and mad money — must be climactic! Whether you yearn for a harmonizing grace note or a screaming contrast—your purse or handbag, and your hat, and your costume jewelry are to be found — underground, that is down the steps in this newest of specialty shops. The handbags are in endless variety . . . leather, felt, fake fur, suede, satin, silk cord, madras, lizard or snake skin. Colors? Terrific! Brandy to ale brown; the new smouldering green; grey; violent to burgundy red; and black of course. "Lady Ambassador" is a clutch that has everything! It's a must! The hats? everything from knitted nonsense to queenly elegance. Invest in high fashions! Put your money in the SOW'S EAR, OCEAN AVENUE, CORNER OF MONTE VERDE, DOWN THE WHITE STEPS.

Checked tweeds, diagonal tweeds, multi-color and monotone tweeds, in two-piece suits, three-piece ensembles, dresses and separate coats. You'll see the fashion show of your life in Pernie's that jewel of a shop, where Misses and women, all shapes and sizes, are pampered . . . and come out dressed "fit to kill." A coat and dress ensemble that really sent me — the black and white diagonal tweed coat, semi-fitted, boasts flap pockets with a new fashion trick, the pockets are shirred, giving a hint of fullness at the hipline. The dress is a beautifully detailed sheath in black crepe. For your most important day in the city this ensemble is perfection . . . Doff the coat, add jewelry and you are set for cocktails and restaurant dining! The checked tweed and heather mixture suits are in great variety—abbreviated or long long jackets; pleated, A-line or straight skirts. Note! Sizes from seven to 46, plus a grand collection of half sizes. And! A brand new collection of hats, for sports, town and formal wear. PERNIE'S, DOLORES, JUST SOUTH OF OCEAN AVENUE.

They weren't exactly Beatle-shrieking, but the young crowd I mingled with at Dorothea's was certainly beaming. In this Carmel shop devoted first and foremost to teen-agers, I gloated over the new Fall winners, for school, for campus and stadium, and for parties. The beloved shift has new flair—slim to a low hip-line, it zooms to an A-line skirt. The winter cottons and corduroys in beautiful deep colors have a refreshing trim look. And the separates, sweaters and skirts, make up a girl's wardrobe! Yeah, yeah, yeah—I found Garland Sweaters right there! Slipovers with jewel, V or roll collar necklines, longline cardigans, double breasted jackets; monotonous and grand mixtures. Skirts, straight, pleated or A-line, to mix or match. And do see the coats! Stunning all-weather models and campus coats are all over the place. Sizes run from 5 to 15 and 8 through 16. For teen-agers and the petite of figure—you'll glow, even if you don't give a Beatle-shriek when you visit DOROTHEA'S, WEST SIDE OF DOLORES, SOUTH OF OCEAN AVENUE.

When that blessed day finally comes, and the teachers bless their wise and patient hearts, take over, what about those dear little monsters, the pre-schoolers? You just can't go every day to the beach . . . alright, shoot them into the garden and you wear yourself out running out there every five minutes, shrieking—"No, no, don't eat the iris!" Your fortress against madness is The Carmel Toy Shop! The new do-it-yourself toys are champion! The giant shoe, a pull toy with "moving pictures" and take-out-and-put-back thingamajigs . . . The ticking clock that teaches time-telling has a moving picture story, too. The building and block sets are endless . . . even Daddy will land right down on the floor to "help." Painting, drawing and crayon sets can be safely eaten if your small fry are like that. And! puppets keep little hands busy for hours. Whether you are seeking to intrigue little Danny, Debbie, or Dad, for blissful hours of freedom for YOU while they play and learn, THE CARMEL TOY SHOP, SAN CARLOS AT FIFTH, THE TOY BOX, CARMEL PLAZA, LOWER LEVEL.

Meeting To Discuss Future Of Carmel Unincorporated

Whether or not Carmel Unincorporated, oldest property owners group for residential areas adjacent to Carmel, is still needed in view of similar groups now existing in separate areas, formerly only represented by the parent group, was discussed at a meeting in the Carmel Rancho community room Tuesday night. The consensus, according to Thomas K. Perry, president of Carmel Unincorporated, was that the group he heads was still needed. However, representatives of the separate property owners groups agreed to meet again, in the same place, on September 22.

At that time definite decisions as to whether or not the areas contiguous to Carmel will continue to need the over-all co-ordinated aid of Carmel Unincorporated will be further discussed.

At the invitation of Carmel Unincorporated directors, 30 persons representing the residential areas around the city attended this week's meeting. Ideas were exchanged and Mr. Perry explained what Carmel Unincorporated has done in the past, is doing now, and can do in the future for the county residential areas.

He said Carmel Unincorporated directors thought such a meeting was necessary. At present, because the separate property owners organizations deal with special problems arising in each of the different areas, the directors wondered if Carmel Unincorporated might have outlived its usefulness, he said.

Subcommittee Gives Financing Plans For Cultural Center

Last night, the finance subcommittee of the Sunset Committee reported on four plans for financing the development of the Sunset School site as a civic and cultural center in accordance with recommendations made on July 29 by the structures and uses subcommittees.

The committee, also, unanimously recommended the fourth plan it proposed.

PLAN 1

Retention and remodeling of the present school structures as a civic and cultural center, owned and operated by the city, with municipal offices, community room, offices and rooms for cultural activities and a public library branch, also keeping the present auditorium and providing a parking facility, as well as provision for leasing part of the site to compatible organizations desiring to build facilities and construction of a 1500-1800-seat additional auditorium, was the subcommittee's first proposed plan.

Cost of repairs and remodeling and preparation of the parking facility, estimated at $700,000, could be met by the sale of property presently owned by the city. Cost of a staff to run the center, also necessary maintenance of the center, developed as above could be met by rental fees, parking income, fund-raising art festivals, gifts, bequests and, if necessary, any needed balance from the city treasury, the subcommittee recommended.

Should a second auditorium be built, it would probably have to be financed by a bond issue and require an increase in taxation. The subcommittee estimated $1½ million dollars as the cost of the larger auditorium.

In support of the larger auditorium, the subcommittee reported that the present Sunset auditorium will not long accommodate the Monterey County Symphony and Bach Festival since their financial success depends on being able to serve larger audiences than they do now.

Therefore, if a suitable auditorium should be built elsewhere on the Peninsula, Carmel may lose both these cherished activities.

Secondly, should a five-year moratorium be found advisable, and only minimum repairs to the Sunset structures be made until better understanding of possible future uses can be determined during this trial period, financing could be accomplished as above.

Thirdly, should complete demolition of present structures be the final decision, an entirely new center could be financed and managed as proposed in Plan

PLAN II

The second plan proposed by the finance subcommittee was a cooperative cultural and civic center owned by the city with cultural activities operated by a council of private arts groups.

In this proposal, the center would be managed by a council, appointed by the Mayor and be composed of all representatives of private organizations using the Sunset facility.

The city would maintain the development and pay staff salaries with income from rentals and parking. The arts council, however, would purchase needed equipment for cultural activities from money accruing from membership dues, festivals, etc.

Capital expenditures necessary would be met in the same way as Plan I.

PLAN III

A Carmel cultural center to serve the whole Monterey Peninsula financed by a new tax district. Revenue from the new tax would cover remodeling and/or building an entirely new development. This development could be managed by a board of directors elected by voters of the tax district.

PLAN IV

A creative arts center built and operated by a group of Carmel art, music and theatre organizations on the Sunset site by lease agreement with the city.

This proposed development of the Sunset site would be managed by an arts council made up of representatives of Carmel cultural groups, also representatives of the city council, planning and arts commissions and the Harrison Memorial Library.

This board would be a non-profit corporation which could enter into a lease with the city for the Sunset premises on a long-term basis with the understanding that the board would be responsible for planning, financing and building the creative arts center.

Proposed for Plan IV development in the report were a large auditorium, art gallery, museum, library, offices and class and meeting rooms.

This plan would relieve Carmel citizens of any tax burden now, or in the future, the Sunset finance subcommittee report concluded.

Party For Anne and Ted

The J. P. Gilberts entertained at cocktails last Friday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roberts of Spokane, Washington. Mrs. Roberts is the daughter of the late Mr. Charles Sumner Greene and of Mrs. Greene of Carmel. Guests at the Gilberts' party were friends all of whom had known Mrs. Roberts for many years.

DON'T consider this home built from Carmel charm unless you plan to be a resident of this community. It is too nice to trust to renters and you would miss out on all the benefits of this possible four bedroomed haven from hurry, located only two blocks from the Post Office, on a secluded lot overlooking a tree filled ravine. Three outside entrances, each to a group of rooms that are joined inside, give great flexibility of living mode. The price $34,850 should be interesting to a buyer who is going to be permanent.

City Hall On Sunset Site Possible . . If

posed uses of Sunset after it belongs to the city.

The answer from a member of the firm, Attorney Nathan D. Rowley, stated that the city is bound by the language of the bond measure approved in April, statements in the feasibility report and official statement of the city prepared by Stone and Youngberg, also the ballot argument in favor of the Sunset bond issue mailed by the city to all registered voters before the April election.

None of the above mentioned use of the Sunset property for municipal administration offices or a city hall.

Therefore, Mr. Rowley concluded that such uses could only be allowed temporarily, and only in existing old buildings as long as these buildings could not be used for an auditorium, art gallery, museum or lecture hall.

In answer to the three other questions from Admiral Fisher he replied as follows: (a) the city may not legally rent or lease any part of the existing Sunset facility for business or professional use; (b) any new buildings on the site may not be so leased; (c) as long as new construction provides a 1,500-seat auditorium, art gallery, museum and lecture hall, additional available space, if any, could be rented to a non-profit cultural organization as long as the rented space were related to the main function of the new construction.

Admiral Fisher replied to Mr. Rowley's letter containing the above opinions by saying that he disagreed with them. He said he interpreted the ballot phrase "municipal cultural and community center" to mean municipal uses as well as cultural and community uses could be developed on the Sunset site.

Secondly, state law permits city-owned property to be leased for no more than 50 years with no restrictions as to whom it is leased. Lastly, Admiral Fisher said in his reply that he thought a citizen's suit should be brought at an early date so that a court could decide whether municipal uses of the Sunset property were intended in the ballot statement.

City Attorney John Morse, after considering the above communications, also after a telephone consultation with Mr. Rowley, prepared a written opinion which was presented to all members of the Sunset Committee present at last night's meeting.

This opinion says that municipal administration offices are a legal use of the Sunset site, SO LONG AS THE PROPORTION OF AREA DEVOTED TO THESE PURPOSES AND THE LOCATION OF THESE FACILITIES DO NOT INTERFERE WITH THE USE OF A CLEAR MAJORITY OF THE IMPROVEMENTS FOR AUDITORIUM AND CULTURAL

PURPOSES.

He continued by saying that if any new construction on the school site required a new bond issue, any defects that may presently exist in the present reports and statements referred to in Mr. Rowley's letter, insofar as they might apply to future use of the Sunset property, could be cured by putting the matter squarely before the public at the time these bonds were voted upon.

He said, in his opinion, the only legal problem posed by the language in the ballot etc. was a taxpayer's suit.

Councilman Eben Whittlesey last night affirmed the last statement. "It would be unfortunate if we were to attempt to get a court decision," he said.

He added that a technical legal decision could freeze uses of the Sunset site the wrong way and deprive the community from "guiding its own destiny."

The Sunset property was "acquired for the people of Carmel by the people of Carmel to develop in the way they most desire," he emphasized.

Mr. Whittlesey further said that the answers sent by Mr. Rowley were given on the basis of language in the ballot etc. and presented "a rather inhibiting use of the new facility."

He thought Sunset should be developed on as "broad a base as possible." The committee would gradually find out what the people of Carmel want. Possibly this might be a combination of municipal and cultural uses, he implied.

The city council and planning commission, he continued, would make the final decisions on the uses of the Sunset site after "a broad sampling" of the desires of the citizens had been considered.

"There is nothing to fear but a taxpayer's suit," he stressed, then added that the only real concern of the bonding company is that the Sunset bonds are paid off. The language in the city's official statement concerning the bonds is a minor consideration to the buyers and sellers of the bonds, he inferred.

He concluded by saying that he agreed with the city attorney's opinion that city administration offices could be a use of the site, then added "as long as they do not dominate the character of the (Sunset) development."

Councilman Gunnar Norberg pointed out that the city's official statement says it "contains estimates and matters of opinion, which are not intended as representations of fact" and that the official statement is "not to be construed as a contract with the purchasers of the bonds."

The statement says that "it is expected that a non-profit corporation will be formed which will finance the demolition of the existing buildings on the site and the construction of a 1,500-seat auditorium, art gallery, museum, lecture hall, and off-street parking for 500 automobiles. It is anticipated that the non-profit corporation will finance the construction through a combination of foundation grants, private contributions, and possibly the issuance of bonds of the corporation."

NO GALLERY ACTION

U.S. District Judge Albert C. Wollenberg enjoined the city from any action against the Fine Arts Gallery of Scottsdale, either in federal or superior court, both on violation of the city's urgency law against auctions, or its zoning laws, until a decision on the pending case in his federal court is reached.

City Attorney John Morse expects action to resume next week.

City Clerk Hugh Bayless reported on a conversation he had with Mr. Rowley after the latter's opinions were given. During this conversation Mr. Bayless ascertained that city administrative offices, either temporarily or permanently, would not be considered a breach of covenant with the buyers of the bonds to finance the purchase of Sunset School.

He also ascertained that a parking facility could be developed at Sunset and would be a proper use of the property—but only if cultural uses predominated in the development.

Chairman Putnam advised that any legal problems that might arise in the future on the Sunset development might be submitted to the attorneys of the League of California Cities, experienced in community center development. The city's membership in the league allows the city, at no charge, to consult the league's full-time legal staff, he pointed out.

A councilman at the time the Sunset bonds were presented to the citizens he said, regardless of council minutes and ballot language, "It was never the intent of the city council to preclude municipal uses."

Editor's Column . . .

(Continued From Page One) present one librarian is in the lowest professional classification, salary range $360-$470 per month. Two are in the second classification, salary $457-$582 per month. The head librarian is in the highest professional classification, $579-$740 per month.

The clerical assistants are classified as juniors and seniors. In the first classification the salary is $272-$347 per month; in the other, $307-$390.

(It is interesting to note that no employee of the city's street and public works department is paid less than $391 a month starting salary.)

Mrs. Thornburg says that Carmel residents demand superior service from their library. As Councilman Eben Whittlesey has several times pointed out in respect to the superior service demanded by citizens from other departments, "The taxpayers must pay for what they demand."

Carmelites are proud of their library. It has prestige value!

At present the library is the only cultural institution Carmelites support with tax money. Moreover, the value of residential property is increased if a city maintains a fine municipal library.

However, what is apparent is that taxable Carmel real estate covers less than one square mile. With such a small taxing base, library taxes are bound to be high, if the city is to have a good library.

Were some of the contiguous residential areas annexed to the city, the library tax would go down. Councilman Norberg thinks this is a matter to be seriously considered by every taxpayer. He favors annexation.

Aside from this, however, if Carmelites want a superior library, they must pay what it costs to run it. This year, thanks to the city council and the city's administrative staff, all taxpayers know exactly what the library does cost them. No expense is hidden in the general tax fund.

—M.L.

New Developments In Business Zone

Public hearing on the parking lot and building sites were held yesterday.

The Union Oil Company's request for permission to construct a new gas station to replace the existing one at the northwest corner of San Carlos and Sixth was approved.

Ethel Jackson

Mrs. Ethel M. Jackson, a resident of Carmel for the past four years, died August 13 in a local nursing home, following an extended illness, at the age of 74 years.

Mrs. Jackson was born in Hurley, South Dakota, September 16, 1890. She spent most of her life in Des Moines, Iowa. Following the death of her husband, the late Leonard Jackson, Mrs. Jackson came to Carmel, to live near her daughter, Mrs. Ken Brown of Carmel.

In addition to Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Jackson is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Flora Bates of San Francisco; Mrs. Elsie Davidson of Battle Creek, Michigan, and Mrs. Carrie Ellis of East Troy, Wisconsin.

Funeral services were held yesterday, in Kalamazoo, Michigan. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.
